

I do hope that the buzz I hear about the FCC totally deregulating broadcast ownership to permit major corporations to gobble up several TV and radio stations in any market, along with ownership of local newspapers will not happen. A great deal of the problems in our country, and a major source of displeasure in broadcasting from a listeners view, is that the days of the monopoly have return. Doesn't our government exist to serve the people and not big business? Enough! Please, if you do anything, and reverse the deregulations of the past ten years and let's get back to having many voices and viewpoints---that's one of our rights!
